THE ULTIMATE BALI SHOPPING EXPERIENCE...

Bali is a shopper's paradise. You can buy almost anything you desire for less than a quarter of the price you'd pay at home. From furniture, to stone, to precious items like pure silver rings, the choices are endless and the savings are a wonderful temptation.

But how do you get your exciting Bali purchases back into Australia, undamaged and through customs without large additional charges?

IndoStyle is an expert in Bali shopping and importation. We have been conducting Bali shopping tours and importing from Indonesia since 1999.

Our experienced shopping tour guide will help you find everything you want from a 2m high stone Buddha to all fittings and furniture for a whole house.

We will take care of all the legal, logistical and insurance arrangements to freight your purchases back to Australia using our unique customised packaging system, designed to ensure the safe and easy transportation of even the most fragile items.

Once your items arrive in Australia, they are delivered to our unpacking and distribution centre. This is conveniently located next to the Sydney Container Terminal and has an Australian Quarantine Inspection Station within the centre for quick and easy inspections and early release for delivery anywhere within Australia.

You'll never have an easier, cheaper or more exciting Bali shopping experience than with IndoStyle.

TOP 10 TIPS for Bali Shopping

- 1. Always buy stock off the floor so that you can be confident of its condition and do your homework before you travel eg. measure the space for that piece of furniture, floor space for those tiles or standard sizes for those tap fittings.
- 2. Inspect all items for structural and visual defects as quality can vary significantly between stores.
- 3. Ensure that your invoice is correct before you leave the store. If the invoice is written in Indonesian, ask the shop owner to write it again in English.
- 4. Use a professional shopping tour guide such as ours who knows how to do business with the Balinese and where the best places are to find exactly what you're looking for. Our guide has been working with IndoStyle for 10 years and has extensive experience in Australian quarantine and customs regulations.
- 5. Remember that permits may be required to bring your purchases back into Australia. IndoStyle has immediate access to all permits required.
- While most Balinese people speak a reasonable standard of English if you have any communication issues while shopping, you are strongly recommended to use the services of an interpreter such as our shopping tour guide.
- When tempted to buy a cheap Balinese product, consider the fact that the shipping costs can be as much as the original purchase price. It therefore pays to purchase the highest quality items you can afford.
- 8. Only buy recyclable timbers otherwise they may shrink when you bring them from a wet to a dry climate.
- When buying stone, remember that natural products may contain flaws so go over each item in detail and make sure it is cut flat on the base. Packaging is critical for stone particularly for brittle stone such as limestone so don't allow the store to simply wrap your items in cardboard. For highly fragile items, we strongly recommend IndoStyle's unique packaging and transportation system which has been designed to suspend items on strong elastic within a case so they can move in transportation without coming into contact with any surface. Every item is individually packaged in the ideal way to ensure it reaches your doorstep in the same condition as it left the shores of Bali.
- 10. Don't organise your own container or let a Balinese shop owner organise your freight. Very often a shop owner will offer transportation at a low fee but extra charges are later incurred for clearance costs, port charges, storage costs, quarantine, inspection costs, GST and import duty. IndoStyle will charge an all inclusive, fixed fee that covers everything required to deliver your items to you in Australia.
